I * COMPREHENSION (4 points). CHOOSE TEXT 1 OR TEXT 2 AND ANSWER ALL THE QUESTIONS FROM THAT TEXT ONLY.

TEXT 1: A BRIEF HISTORY OF CHOCOLATE

- When we hear the word chocolate, we imagine a bar or a box of bonbons. The verb that comes to mind is probably 'eat', not 'drink', and the most suitable adjective would seem to be 'sweet'. But for about 90 percent of chocolate's long history, it was strictly a drink, and sugar did not have anything to do with it.
- It is hard to determine exactly when chocolate was born, but it seems clear that it was very appreciated from the start. Both the Mayans and Aztecs believed the cacao bean had magical properties, suitable for use in the most sacred rituals of birth, marriage and death. Legend says that the Aztec king Moctezuma tragically mistook Spanish conqueror Cortés for a reincarnated god and welcomed him with a banquet that included drinking chocolate. Explorers did not like chocolate at first —one described it as "a bitter drink for pigs". However, the drink became very popular after it was mixed with sugar or honey years after in Spain.
- By the 17th century, chocolate was a fashionable drink in Europe, believed to have nutritious, medicinal and aphrodisiac properties. However, it remained largely a privilege of the rich. In North America, chocolate was so valued during the War of Independence that it was included in soldiers' rations and even used as part of their pay.
- In the 20th century, the word chocolate expanded to include a range of affordable treats with more sugar and additives than actual cacao in them. However, there is currently a growing interest in high-quality and handmade chocolates, as well as in sustainable and effective cacao farming methods.

TEXT 2: THE VISION

- 1 He called her Bumps because when she smiled, her big cheeks grew even larger, turning pink with the natural timidity of a 2 farm girl.
3 Kevin was my college roommate, and Bumps was his girlfriend. He thought of himself as too urbane and sophisticated to marry
4 a modest, apple-cheeked farm girl, so he ended their relationship before it got too serious.
5 Months later I ran into Bumps. We sat and talked about the obvious: How was Kevin? Was he seeing anyone? I told her he
6 was doing okay and hadn't seen anyone else. Suddenly, and I have a difficult time explaining this, a thought, or maybe a scene,
7 came to my mind. I suppose you could call it a vision. From somewhere high in the air I watched Kevin and Bumps as they got
8 married next to a lake I'd never seen before. I was perplexed but I said nothing about it to her. If she and Kevin were going to get
9 back together, it wouldn't be because I told them I'd had a vision of them getting married.
10 Later, when I arrived home, I stood on the doorstep for a moment, repeating to myself my resolution not to mention what had 11 happened. However, just as I opened the door, I was unable to control my mouth and said "I think you should start seeing Bumps
12 again." It was as if someone else was speaking. Kevin let out a loud laugh. We agreed that it was weird and left it at that.
13 I never mentioned the lake or the marriage scene to anyone. The next summer, Kevin and Bumps got married next to that 14 lake.
