

PH Journal

English abstracts

PH Journal is a periodical publication edited by the Andalusian Historical Heritage Institute (IAPH) uninterruptedly since 1992. It has been published online since October 2013. Content is fully accesible and can be downloaded free of charge.

Some articles published in PH Journal have abstracts in English that may be consulted at <http://www.iaph.es/revistaph/index.php/revistaph/issue/archive>

PH Journal is aimed at people and institutions dealing with cultural heritage: researchers, professionals and citizens, mainly in the Ibero-American sphere, and includes rigorous interdisciplinary content, following a double blind review process. PH journal provides examples of good professional practices in every stage of the heritage value chain, but also presents original knowledge in the field of heritage protection generated through a scientific methodology. PH Journal is a tool for transmitting and transferring the knowledge generated in the IAPH and in other public and private research organizations, as well as a platform open to the participation of all kind of heritage-related organisations and individuals, serving as a stimulus for debate and reflection.
